

ULC Book Nook

The ULC Book Nook shares the same basic idea with neighborhood lending libraries with one major difference. The purpose of our book nook is Evangelism, to spread God's Love and the Christian gospel to all of our neighbors including the MSU community. We chose to name it the Book Nook because we want folks to keep the books they take from the nook, it is not a lending library. Each book is labeled so the recipient will know it is a gift and they will also know where it came from and how to contact the church for more information about ULC if desired. The ULC visitor and welcome brochures, magnets, copies of the LUX, and flyers for upcoming church activities will also be included so folks can see what we have to offer. The Book Nook is an outreach to the surrounding community including any visitors who may attend worship and would like to take a bible or book home to keep.

Many thanks to all of the ULC folks that made this project possible: Clarke Anderson who had the big idea and the other members of the Evangelism team who supported it; Annette Stanley, Eric Podolsky, and Bryan Rahe; Diane Appel and her family for their financial support in memory of her husband Walt, a man known for his great love of books; Connie Lenkowski and the ULC Library team for contributions of books and advice; Pastor Gary and Pastor Haley Vay for their suggestions of adult, children, and Spanish Bibles; and last but definitely not least Sandy Davis and Jim Lorenz who donated their time, talent and resources to build the incredible Book Nook structure that resembles a small replica of our church.
